GERMAN REBELS IN BLOODY INSURRECTION

PUSH SELECTION OF KUFAHL JURY
IN ELKHORN COURT
JUDGE FOWLER SPEEDS UP QUESTIONING OF VENERE.

SPECIAL PANEL
36 More Summoned Wednesday; Testimony May Start Tomorrow.

(By Gazette Correspondent)
Elkhorn.—Rapid headway was made here Wednesday morning in the trial opened in circuit court after a two-day recess.

Sponsored by Judge Chester A. Fowler, Fond du Lac, who sits in place of Judge E. B. Belden, against whom an affidavit of prejudice was filed, counsel for the state and defense were quick in questioning prospective jurors and when court adjourned at noon until 1:30 p. m., 13 candidates remained in the box of the 30 summoned.

Trend is Indented.

That circumstantial evidence will play a prominent part in the state's case was indicated by the questioning of the members of the venire by District Attorney Godfrey, who, in his opinion, "is the best man to convict on circumstantial evidence," Attorney W. C. Zabel, Milwaukee, questioned the jurors for the defense, asking if they believed a man was innocent until proved guilty.

Selection of the jury proceeded immediately after the opening of court, District Attorney Godfrey, read the information against Venero, and the jurors then were examined. Judge Fowler showed no hesitancy about discrediting jurors who declared they had an opinion and snapped out "excused" so the courtroom could hear it. Many times he took the questioning out of the attorneys' hands and conducted it himself.

Those from the venire for the regular term of court who survived the questioning were Clarence Potter, Spring Prairie; W. H. Howard, Sharon; Mrs. Baby Volk, Troy Center; W. C. Davis, Walworth; John McFarland, Delavan; H. E. Zettemore, Elkhorn; Mrs. George White, Whitefish, George S. Batchelder, Zenda; Jessie Hand, Lake Geneva, and Mrs. George Bushaw, Delavan.

Three more from the second panel of jurors summoned for the trial passed the questioning successfully during the morning. Ernest Kuwahl, the defendant, sat throughout the morning, looking down at his cook, Honey Creek. The tall, slim young man, with his face wan and marked with lines which have come through jail confinement, focused his eyes on each person questioned.

Court Not Crowded.

The courtroom, which partially filled at the start of those present were men, Walworth county, in learning the court procedure and those who plan to be onlookers are avoiding the dullness of jury panel examination. The most surprising thing at the morning session was the many who had read nothing about the Schade poison case and therefore were of an open mind.

Though Mrs. Myrtle Schade was not in court, she was represented by her attorneys, Roscoe Luce and Charles Wilson of Elkhorn, who took notes on the proceedings. The state is being assisted by Jay W. Page, Elkhorn, special prosecutor, and the defense by Skinner and Thomas, Milwaukee.

It looks possible that a jury may be obtained by Thursday and testimony will then be heard. A large number of witnesses will be summoned and the duration of the trial is problematical.

Three or four special panel summoned Wednesday are as follows: Charles August Millard; May Gile, Mrs. Frank Long, Mrs. Frank Elliott, Sharon; J. F. Ward, Charles Brabazon, Wilbur Lynch and Frank Schroeder, Delavan; Arthur Brown, C. D. Westphal, Fred Bromley, Louise Davidson, and H. E. Brockmeier, Watertown; Mrs. Constance Abbott, Lydia, and Charles Klett, East Troy; Mr. Luther Gerion, City; Ralph Rehner, Spring Prairie; Mrs. Ruth Stuhmann, Mrs. J. L. Stokes, Howard Taylor, Howard Peck, and E. A. Powell, Elkhorn; Lylo Rowbotham, Fontana; Arthur Dempsey, Troy Center; A. W. Madsen and George Springer; William Doss, Andrew Madsen, and May Powers, Lake Geneva; Rutherford Davis, Mark Ingersoll, Walworth; Orrin Mitchell, George Babcock, Honey Creek; William Held, Lyons; and Frank E. Walker, Williams Bay.

PRESIDENT IN CALL TO COUNTRY FOR TAX CUT

Unshrinking Prosecution in Teapot Dome—Coolidge

"Lately there have been most startling revelations concerning the leasing of government oil lands. It is my duty to extend to every individual the constitutional right to the presumption of innocence until proven guilty. But I have another duty equally constitutional, even more important, of securing the enforcement of the law. In that duty I do not intend to fail."

Speaking last night before 2,000 men and women at the national republican club's Lincoln anniversary dinner, during his first visit to New York since he entered the White House, Mr. Coolidge selected his "intent on the enforcement of our laws without fear or favor, no matter who is hurt or what the consequences."

(By Gazette Correspondent)
New York.—The country today has the definite promise of President Coolidge that there will be immediate, adequate and unshrinking prosecution, criminal and civil, in the land leasing disclosures.

Speaking last night before 2,000 men and women at the national republican club's Lincoln anniversary dinner, during his first visit to New York since he entered the White House, Mr. Coolidge selected his "intent on the enforcement of our laws without fear or favor, no matter who is hurt or what the consequences."

Urge Mellon Bill.

Much of his address was devoted to a discussion of tax revision with a reiteration of his support of the Mellon bill, saying that unless the people "make their wishes known to the congress without regard to party, this bill will not pass."

The chief executive presented an appeal to the country to support him in pressing for passage of the Mellon bill, saying that unless the people "make their wishes known to the congress without regard to party, this bill will not pass."

The Democratic Farmer bill was branded by Mr. Coolidge as "impossible in practice" and "political in theory."

One statement made by the president without elaboration was that any settlement of the European situation "would call for a European funding and financing, which would be of doubtful success without American participation."

President Coolidge also reiterated his opposition to the bonus, declaring it would result in inflation and higher prices and adding that "few months of good times are worth more to the service men than anything they could receive in the way of a bonus."

PRESIDENT BACK AFTER
20 HOURS' ABSENCE

Washington.—President Coolidge, returning from New York, where he addressed the Lincoln birthday dinner of the National Republican club, reached Washington at 7 a. m., today, having been absent from the capital less than 20 hours on the first trip of more than a few miles he has made since becoming president.

Washington.—The question of Willard C. McAdoo's availability for the Democratic presidential nomination will be put up to a conference of state leaders fostering his candidacy, to be held at Chicago, at his own suggestion.

In a letter to David L. Rockwell of Ohio, campaign manager in charge of his national headquarters at Chicago, Mr. McAdoo requested him to call the conference to determine whether he can serve as counsel in the handling of the Mexican interests of E. L. Doheny. "Is precluded in the cause of progressive democracy."

He also recommended that "progressives outside the democratic party, representatives of labor, representatives of the farmers" be invited to participate "in order that we may as far as possible a true index of their opinions."

Mr. McAdoo declared that if the conference should decide that "an honorable professional service" rendered by him to a client but having no relation whatever to the oil leases, "had made him unavailable for the nomination, he would 'gladly withdraw and fight as a private in the ranks."

SHORTHORN TEST RECORDS

Pride of Sunnyside, a grade owned by E. H. Arnold and Son, and Clark, both 2nd and owned by Robert Traynor, ran a close race for top honors in the Rock County Milking Shorthorn C. T. A. last month. The Arnold cow made 61.2 pounds of fat and the Traynor cow hit 59.7. Christobel, the show cow in the Traynor herd, then caused a stir at the International by refusing to eat. Her owner, Mrs. Anna Christobel, was asked to leave town. Had she milked at Chicago in a normal manner, Rock County would have had one more blue ribbon to its string of 23 prizes.

The herd of David Arnold was high herd honors, the average being 32 pounds. The herd of Gallon Pierce has been coming up, and last month averaged 31, and that of Kettie Brothers 31.5. Ivey Brothers' herd averaged 30 pounds.

The following table gives the names and records of the cows in the association which have produced 40 pounds of butterfat during the period of 30 days ending Jan. 31, 1924.

TO FORM POULTRY CLUB IN COUNTY

Meeting to Be Held in Court House Saturday—J. B. Hayes to Speak.

Organization of a Rock County poultry club will be considered during a county meeting of poultry raisers in the court house here Saturday, February 16 at 1:30 p. m. The meeting will be in charge of J. B. Hayes, poultry extension worker of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture and County Agent R. T. McRae.

For developing a co-operative interest in the county, co-operation will be considered through a county association. Special aid will be given in the form of lectures and demonstrations to poultry interests of the county. Providing sufficient interest is shown, the association will go into the egg marketing problem with the organization of different committees for the grading and packing of the local market terminals.

Poultry interests have rapidly advanced in southern Wisconsin during the last year. During 1924 effort will be made to further poultry breeders in Rock county through this county association and the junior poultry club under the direction of the county junior co-operative committee and county agent—Vernon Janesville. Rock women are urged to attend the meeting Saturday, for in the majority of cases, the rural housewife develops the poultry department. Officers for the county association will be elected.

CHESTER-WHITE SALE IN EVANSVILLE 19TH

With the second annual Poland-China sale being held in the county pavilion on the fair grounds here, Wednesday, the next interest of the swine breeders will be the annual Chester-White auction of D. H. Babcock and William F. Butts, Evansville, Tuesday, Feb. 19. There will be 34 spring gilts, three fall yearlings and two tamed sows from this famous breeding farm offered in the consignment. The sale will be held in the Evansville Grange and Feed warehouse, 12th and Main street, "this sale with L. P. Gates as clerk."

Both Babcock have been outstanding breeders of good Chester-Whites for many years as their previous sales and show ring records will prove. Each year this firm has contributed greatly to the standing of Rock county in the state fair competition, having considerable wins.

Their senior herd won in Top Master, grand champion in 1921 and Hesper, N. L. Champion, a prize winner in 1922 and sire of several of the top quality litters in the Butts and Babcock herds is also one of the herd sires.

COUNTY WINS CORN CLUB PRIZE AGAIN

Rock county for the third straight year won the championship for the junior corn club, run under the direction of J. K. Arnott, rural Y. M. C. A. secretary of the county. Notice that the club won the silver trophy which was received from E. D. Holden, Madison, on Tuesday. Having won the cup two straight years, one cup won in 1922 is retained and Rock will have to win the state honors again to retain the new cup.

OLD-FASHIONED VALENTINE BACK

Sentimental Missives Supplant Weird "Comics" in Local Demand.

Broad lacey leaflets bedecked with hearts, ribbons of love and chirping birds piping amorous refrains, herald the revival of the genuine old fashioned valentine. The sentimental valentine so in vogue in the eighties and nineties of the past century holds sway in local shops this season and according to the latest reports, is being laid up by young and old, who are busy these past few days in sending out little remembrances.

For the past few years there has been a tendency to disappear in the valentine world. A jaunty Up-rouged maiden with a saucy hat and bunching some bright and gaudy bouquet, was the valentine of modern invention and a dapper gent making stately inscriptions, concerning the contents of a certain flask, fruit for another. These are the reflections of the age and in last year's market found many sales.

For the first time in the history of the valentine, Mr. Schmidt, a manufacturer, attended in January, 1924, the statement declared that in an attempt recently there were no charges of dishonesty or inefficiency in the administration of highway expenditures. It further said that the legislative highway committee, which authority of the entire body.

The statement declared that there is any discussion within the state highway commission, except "from the junior member," George Staudenmayer, Portage, was contained in a statement issued today by W. O. Hatchikas, chairman of the City Federation of Women arranged for second demonstration in a more public place to give all interested mothers an opportunity to attend.

Mr. Hatchikas, chairman of the state school of home economics, said food demonstrations during the war.

A gas burner will be loaned by the New Gas Light company for the demonstration Sunday afternoon.

Students Make Own Alarm System

With the installation Wednesday of the first alarm system in the community which Mr. Staudenmayer attended in January, 1924, the statement continued, "his first act was to insist on an executive session thereby making it necessary that Mr. Hirsh and State Engineer Macle leave the vocational school for that building will be finished and ready for use. The equipment consists of electrically operated siren horns, which will not interfere with either the present bell system or the telephone system."

The new apparatus will be tested for a fire drill as soon as the weather is favorable.

The students of the manual arts department have also placed new steps in the rear of the building.

Cards Out Polices.

"As to the charge that Mr. Hirsh is usurping the power of the commission, he has been told that in his opinion the commission is not in a position to assign such authority and such duties to employees as they deem advisable. The commission enterprise like any large business enterprise, the commissioners acting as a board of directors, determining the policies, and the manager carrying them out. He will take the three months' course in a training school for tank corps officers. Camp Meade is the headquarters for the tank corps of the United States army.

FEW CASES HEARD IN JUSTICE COURT

Despite the usual large number of cases occurring in justice court following the opening of the new year, but three cases have been handled by Justice Charles Lange in three weeks. Judgments totaling $203.40 were granted as follows: G. L. Stenger, $100; Frank Brothers, $100; and Edward B. Foster against Irvin Sawyer, house rent, $78.15; E. J. Stanner against A. G. Richards, automobile repairs, $27.54.

FOUR INJURED IN KAUKAUNA WRECK

Appleton—Four members of train crew were injured when northbound passenger train No. 121 and southbound freight No. 48 collided head-on, on the Ashland division of the Northwestern railroad near Kaukauna. A relief train was rushed to the scene. The injured were taken to the hospital, and one died later.

The injured were Frank Flaherty, Green Bay; Charles Koghe, John Flattens, Glens Falls, N. Y.; L. G. Jones, Jr., Milwaukee; and M. P. Green, Mrs. Draper, d. h. A. Adolph Landi, Charles Koghe, John Flattens, Mrs. W. S. Jones, Mayme G. Hopkins, George W. Smith, Mrs. W. Smith, R. Cullen, F. Schumacher, and Randolph, Milton, who has been disabled for a series of eight lessons.

The purpose of the classes is that children may have the opportunity of acquainting themselves with musical instruments and refine refined musical tastes, so that they may be more members of musical organizations which shall be effective in increasing community spirit toward the promotion of music," according to the statement of the public school music department.

Instruction on the violin is open to any pupil above the fifth grade, but it is understood that a pupil entering the class will be required to have a brother, Judge Thos. O'Donnell who spoke here in 1912, make a return address which will be open to the public. Further announcements will be made later.

FOUR CREWS BUSY ON WIRE DAMAGE

Two Months Will Be Required to Repair Trouble Due to Storm.

Sixty days will be required by the Wisconsin Telephone company to replace the 1,000 miles of wire damaged by the storm last week. Of the 1,500 poles in the Janesville district which fell in the wake of the storm, six between Janesville and Beloit have been replaced and a large bunch of 30 between Monroe and Monticello are up again.

The 34 poles for the damage between Richmond and Whitewater were shipped to the latter point and then transported by team. Crews must replace 31 poles on the road between the county asylum and Milton. An other crew working out of Monroe will be responsible for 30 between Monroe and Juda which were blown down.

A wire crew of four men and a pole crew of eight men are working out of Janesville. Fifteen men comprise the Monroe crew and eight men at Whitewater.

PORCUPINE OWL MAKES A NOISE LIKE A STEAMBOAT

Seattle, Wash.—Lore concerning the porcupine owl, which, as the tale runs, finds its way in fog by sound and as it travels the frozen water courses of the far north, makes unsensational noises. His howl of a steamboat has been brought to the states by J. P. Chisholm, a trapper from the upper Koyukuk Valley, Alaska, who is wintering here.

"Unlike the owls of temperate climes," said Mr. Chisholm, "the porcupine owl can see only in daylight. He would be just as bad off if he could see only in the dark, to cover which he has the day, and the night are each six months long."

"To overcome his blindness the porcupine owl has received from nature a vibrant and resonant voice. At a distance it sounds like the whistle of a boat, and many a newcomer in Alaska has rushed to the river looking for a steamer when the boats were frozen fast for the winter."

The porcupine owl uses his voice as a mariner uses a siren in a fog. He hoots and then listens intently. If there is an obstruction, he goes the echo. A man or a beast comes at echo to the ear of the porcupine owl.

"This owl gets his name from a set of quills that weights him down so that he cannot fly. With these quills he can fight a man or a bear, stand in the dark. In such combats he often repels his foe."

"I expect he will. Damn that'll be it. Now like enough he'll follow me around."

"He'll keep you under the microscope," said the judge. "I've had all kinds of freedom too. And if I should red pepper on my tracks he'll get suspicious and might take a chance and dump me. Damn him twice!"

"It takes all kinds of people to make up a world," said the judge sententiously. "I expect God put in the foolish to make harder for the rest of us."

"You never spoke a finer word," Dern said with much feeling. "The judge agreed. "What are you going to do next?"

"Oh, scatter round, scatter round."

Which was well enough to tell the judge. For Dern was not the slightest intention of Informant to say or do any one thing. He had come to the Large River range with the intention of having a look at the black horse brought north by the Bar S ranchers. There is no profit in telling all one knows, even to a judge. It might turn out not to be Site's horse, after all.

"And to think we used to be friendly with Pop Sawyer!" Pap mumbled softly, as he and Slim rode along.

Slim nodded indifferently. He was thinking of something else. Pap gave him an oblique glance. He divined that Slim was thinking—and what Slim was thinking. When Slim looked at his father, Pap was looking over his bushy eyebrows.

"Funny," said Slim. "I never thought of Dolly having progeny."

"Seeing as she ain't got a red," sneered Pap, "I never thought so, either. We got to do something. Slim. First thing you know, Pop will pin Site Thompson's mutton right in our buttonhole."

"Pop, you think so, hub? You're right but, fer' old sakes."

Pap turned his head slowly. His black eyes were arrow pits of hardness. His beard seemed to stiffen to bristles. "Look here—" he began.

"You look here," interrupted Slim hurriedly. "I ain't a fool—not complete."

Pap lost nothing of his meaning. Slim nodded. But when he spoke his voice was almost gentle. "Give it a name."

"I want a share of Dolly's money," Pap laughed. "Money! There ain't any money. You're bucking up the wrong tree, young feller."

"It's the right tree and the right root. I want a share of Dolly's money and I'm going to have it."

"Are you?"

"You bet. It's share alike in this outfit, y' understand. How would you like the others to know about

When the dish is filled cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven until browned and the sauce bubbles through the crumbs. To make the sauce, melt two tablespoons of butter, blend in two tablespoons of flour, add a dash of salt, a dash of strained tomato liquid. Stir constantly until thick and smooth and season with a tablespoon Worcester sauce, mustard and paprika to taste, and one cupful of grated American cheese. Cook until the cheese is melted.

GRILLED CAKE—Two cups brown sugar, two cups flour, one-half cup butter or substitute. Mix this together, stir in a half cup of milk, then add one egg, beat well, add one cup sour milk, one teaspoon soda, two teaspoons grated nutmeg. Mix well and bake in shallow pan. Sprinkle on top with the half cup of crumbs which you took out of the cake. Let it stand for a few minutes, then turn cake out onto a platter and then come home and dance. I think it is a good idea, because it breaks the monotony of our parties and then too we all know each other very well. One of the young men, however, said he didn't think it was quite good, so I am afraid he will not be able to go out without a companion. This cake is very well principled, but I think at times he is a little too conventional, I think it is all right to take care of one's reputation, but what harm would it be to take a ride with seven schoolmates?

A. M.—There would probably not be any harm in you taking the ride, but only to other children, because when you meet him, he will be more than likely to be your friend.

INNATE HABITS—Take a piece of bacon, a half cup of sugar and a half cup of flour, mix well, then add a half cup of water, add a dash of salt, a dash of pepper, a dash of cayenne, a dash of nutmeg, a dash of cinnamon, a half cup of sugar and the bread. Pour into buttered baking dish, top with two tablespoons of bread crumbs and a cup of water or stock; simmer until celery is soft. Add a quart of bread crumbs, a quart of bacon, a cup of flour, a cup of sugar and a dash of cayenne. Demand red box bearing Mr. Hill's portrait. All druggists. Price 30c.

CONSTIPATION—Best avoided, or world liver-bitterness-indigestion and gassy pains result.

YOUR BABY and MINE

BY MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers to take care of their children of any age in any subject which does not refer to the field of the doctor.

Mrs. S. L. writes: I have read your articles since they started, and after reading about the 100 per cent baby simply had to write to you. My baby is now two years old and is still not walking. She is very good, but she is not walking. I am simply frantic in an effort to get her up, as she eats so little food and will not eat. She likes rice and macaroni, butter and a little milk, apple sauce and chocolate pudding. She gained fine up to four months and then, despite the fact that she has been under the care of a doctor, she has gained very little.

I dreamt a bum-bum-bumble-bee was playin' tag with a hop-toad, an' th' bumble-bee got mad an' was gonna bite th' hop-toad but th' fairy turned him into a wicked ol' wolf an' a big giant.

into the background. There is really nothing you can do, except force yourself not to feel hurt and jealous. The fact that he talks to your friend more than he does to you is not an indication that he likes her better. There is no way I can suggest for you to win his love. Simply be yourself, be kind, be considerate, particularly to stay away. I would advise you to accept the attentions of the young man. Have as good a time as you can, because at your age you ought not to stay at home waiting for attention for one person in particular. The young man of your choice is more likely to be interested in you if you prove to be interesting to others besides himself.

You have trained her to just the habits you are deplored. Making so much fuss over her eating and paying so much attention to her has merely taught her greater importance, and she makes you pipe the same tune over and over again. Stop it and see how soon she will learn.

Give her cod liver oil daily, which may stimulate her to take on some additional flesh. Don't force the same creams all the time, and make use of some eggs and milk in the form of custards, salty ones. Her diet is very varied and if you will write and tell me what you are doing, I will be sure to let you know.

"A nurse should be as refreshing as the flowers that come to the sick room," she explained, "so I never let my patient see me in a disheveled state, if possible, especially in the early part of the day." She continued, "I may not be able to put the effect upon the patient is so bracing that it pays me to begin my work in the sick room fresh from a bath and fully groomed. I am renewed myself and the patient is sensitive to it."

Realizing that the patient sees her more than anyone else, she makes herself as attractive as possible, arranging her hair under the becoming coiffure so as to attain the best effect; and well cared for nails are as important to her as clean uniforms.

"Of course, intelligent nursing is the important thing, and most nurses do this," she asserted, "but when a refreshing presence is added it will count much in lifting the depression of a sick person, and usually shortens the convalescent period."

Mrs. J. M.—As the mare is only a little darker than the rest of your skin, you may be able to cover it by first rubbing it into a very little bit of cream and then cover it with powder. For special occasions you could use a thin powder to cover. Do not scratch when removing such birth marks without injury to the skin.

P. T. W.—Eat less of all starchy foods, also all sweets and rich pastries. Train yourself to eat less at each meal than your appetite demands, and stop eating between meals. Probably your interest in the young man is your self-confidence when you meet him. Try to be natural and you alone are naturally talkative to you and your friend. But when your friend is along you are at a disadvantage because you care, it doesn't matter to her what she says or does, and probably as a result she commands his attention while you sit.

FINANCE

Wall Street Review.

New York.—Stock prices tended upward at the opening of today's market, although heaviness was apparent throughout the day and price traders. The close was steady, but to 14 1/2c net lower, May 79 1/4c.

Outs sympathized with the weakness of other grains. Starting 14 1/2c off the 14c mark, May 79 1/4c, prices showed but little power to react.

Previsions were framed in line with the big market.

$21,000,000 FOR HIGHWAY BUILDING

A m o u n t . Available Slightly Less Than Last Year, First Reports.

MADISON — Wisconsin will have available approximately $21,000,000 for highway construction in 1924, according to an estimate of the program for the present year prepared by A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer. Mr. Hirst stated that the total funds available probably will be slightly less for the present year than last.

Reports received indicate that there will be available for state aid construction a sum of $2,171,000, or $450,000 less than the amount available through proceeds of county bond issues, the summary stated. County boards have made available the sum of $1,381,002 for county aid construction and $827,005 for county highway construction, a total of $2,208,007.

Motor vehicle funds available are reported as follows:

County funds for trunk highways	$ 463,741
County funds for local highways	1,480,540
Motor vehicle license fees for state highways	3,000,000
Motor vehicle fees returned to counties	1,575,000

Total $6,019,281

The counties also have made available the sum of $1,516,234 for various miscellaneous purposes, the report stated. The total of these sums is $18,415,648. The best estimates made to date indicate that there will be available, for federal aid construction a total sum of approximately $2,750,000.

PRESIDENT IN CALL TO COUNTRY FOR TAX REDUCTION

Star Spangled Banner" and the 2,000 people at the dinner stood and cheered the president for many minutes. Introducing him, Mrs. Gilman, who presides over the life of Abraham Lincoln, the president plunged at once into a discussion of the chief issues of the moment.

The president devoted much attention to agriculture and agriculture, in concluding turned to the question of the present time—the oil land lease investigation.

"Lately there have been most startling revelations concerning the leasing of government oil lands," he said. "At the revelation of greed making its subtle approaches to public office, of the prostitution of high places in the name of private gain, there is a deep sense of humiliation and such gross betrayal of trust, and we incite the whole nation to a sense of indignation. We cannot rest with righteous wrath still less can we permit ourselves to give way to cynicism."

Open Justice.

"We propose to follow the open path of justice. There will be immediate, adequate, unshaking prosecution, criminal and civil, to punish the guilty and to protect every man in the country. In so doing we will be no political partisans; it will be speedy, it will be just, it will be republican, but I cannot on that record stand anyone but a democrat because he is a democrat.

Editorial.

Acknowledging that it might seem strange here in the country's metropolis, Mr. Coolidge told his hearers that they had no political enemies, but only political interests. He outlined the steps already taken by the administration through encouragement of agricultural marketing, reduction of tariff rates and other governmental relief; the steps contemplated through legislation, and then added:

"While I am most anxious to keep upon the people of our country the utmost necessity that they should be willing to make sacrifices for the welfare of the nation, I do not mean that any unsound device like price fixing, which I oppose, because it would not make prices higher, but would in the end make them lower.

It would not be successful and would not prove a remedy, but I do mean that the resources of the country ought to come to the support of agriculture. The only course we can pursue without regard to party, this bill (the Bonus bill) is to supply money and management for the larger aspects of agriculture ought to have your sympathetic support."

Turning to taxes, as one of the contributing causes to the agricultural depression, Mr. Coolidge traced the cause to the national debt through re-treatment and refunding of domestic securities; through the operation of the Federal Reserve system; and every reasonable effort to secure the liquidation of our international debts. These steps have had the result of permitting the decrease in taxes and the Mellon plan was evolved as we said.

Perpetual Adjustment.

Starting with the declaration that the country is entitled to all the relief from the burden of taxation which is possible, he continued, "The proposed measure gives such relief. Other measures which have been brought forward do not do so well."

He outlined the Garner plan, which he had heard of, and thought it good.

"I stand on the simple proposition that the country is entitled to all the relief from the burden of taxation which is possible," he continued. "The proposed measure gives such relief. Other measures which have been brought forward do not do so well."

CARTER CLOSES TUT TOMB AS EGYPTIANS LIMIT OPERATIONS

most wonderful things in the world have been found. The pharaoh is represented in high relief, covered with sheets of solid gold, more than twice life size, his serene and beautiful face exquisitely incised, with glittering eyes of amethyst and a long upward sweep of solid gold.

The gold and scepter which the king grasps in his crossed hands are of solid wood more than three feet long. From the waist down broad wings of protective goddesses meet across the knees to shield the pharaoh from danger.

When the lid was raised the mummy case was found to be completely covered with gold. This lid when turned up disclosed to the bewildered eyes of the excavators, as one of those present told a correspondent of the Associated Press, "gleaming golden man." The mummy case stands in a coffin on what seems to be a wooden shelf, on which毫不足道的 price dragged it to the Valley of the Kings.

* Garish Decorations.

To picture the scene of this tremendous find one must visualize a narrow, low-roofed vault, the walls of which are decorated with rather garish religious scenes which King Tutankhamen's tomb and his predecessor's in the foreground a group of guests bunched in shirt sleeves and unpleasantly warm, jostling one another in the heat of the tomb; in the background, beneath scaffolding, pulleys and ropes, the plain plain cases of the royal sarcophagi, brilliantly illumined under the blinding rays of an 800 candle power electric lamp.

As for the first time in over 20 centuries light had struck into the sarcophagus—not the yellow lamp-light under which the pharaoh was confined, but the steady, brilliant glow of the powerful electric arc lights which undoubtedly is within.
